Mount Everest is the highest mountain on Earth, rising an astonishing 8,848 metres above sea level. Remote, awe-inspiring and brutally unforgiving, it has long been the ultimate goal for adventurers worldwide — and one of the most dangerous environments on the planet.

Bear Grylls became the youngest Brit to summit Everest, and now the Bear Grylls Survival Academy brings that same spirit of challenge, decision-making and teamwork indoors with SUMMIT. This immersive team-building experience puts your team on the mountain itself, where every choice matters. Extreme conditions, limited resources and mounting pressure mean that poor decisions can quickly lead to serious consequences.

But SUMMIT isn't just about physical challenge — it's a test of strategy, leadership and collaboration. Teams must plan their ascent, allocate vital oxygen supplies, manage resources, decide on routes and make critical calls under pressure. Success depends on clear communication, smart delegation and collective decision-making.

In this fast-paced indoor challenge, teams race not only to reach the summit first, but — crucially — to get everyone back down safely. Along the way, participants develop stronger communication, sharper strategic thinking, improved leadership skills and a deeper understanding of what it truly takes to perform as a high-functioning team.

The mountain is waiting.

Do you have what it takes to reach the SUMMIT — together?

"I felt as if I was on an adventure, even though we were inside. This has something for everyone — not just the outdoorsy types."
